(*WIP*) Connection to Main Quest

What are they doing with the artifact?

The coven are trying to use the artifact to take over the forest. To do this, they need to gather the four artifacts/their powers (through the player) and convert them, using an artefact they created, to empower themselves tenfolds.

Currently, they are mainly using the artefact to enhance their rituals, by draining its chakra and infusing it into the rituals.

They also figured out, how to strengthen themselves directly with it, though only the generals and the Ruler know of this.

When and how did the artifact get to the faction?

They found the artifact 7 years ago inside some ancient ruins, while they were investigating them to learn more about the ancient magic. Shortly after, they started experimenting with it they found out, that their magic was slightly stronger, when using it near the artifact and it seems, that the artifact itself is leaking chakra. Upon further investigation they figured out, that the artifact is seems to store chakra, for later use and using it as inspiration, they managed, after 6 years, to also recreate an artifact for storing chakra, although much less potent.

How much does the faction know about the artifact?

The coven don't know much about their artifact other than it was used to store chakra. Upon investigating the artifact of the other factions with their agents, they figure, that it was originally used, as a fuel source for the completed artifact. The Ruler seems to want the other artifacts to strengthen the rituals more efficiently, but he might also have something else in mind. (*WIP*)
